Stikine Open To Telegraph

Mail and news brought from Cassiar
Teslin miner going outside

Wednesday afternoon Lawrence and Strong returned from the boundary with the first party to come down the Stikine by boat this spring. D. J. Raney, direct from the Teslin diggings and Telegraph Creek Indians with mail were in the party and they report the river open to Telegraph Creek. Mr. Raney comes direct from the Teslin diggings and says that progress on the creeks is very slow on account of the heavy snowfall. He reports that Skookum Jim and party with a crew of workmen and other large crews are on the ground ready for the breakup. Mr. Raney's partner remained at the diggings to report the progress of the camp.

D. Sinclair and H. D. Campbell returned on the Al-Ki, Wednesday, from Ketchikan.

Rep. N. J. Svindseth Returns From Juneau

Representative, N. J. Svindseth, the popular Wrangell Captain who has just completed a very successful term of lawmaking as a Representative from the First Division in the first Territorial Legislature of Alaska, returned Monday on the Spokane. Representative, Svindseth proved one of the most able statesmen in the House and won favorable comment from all sides by his work, and, adhering to the principles of his platform, introduced bills prohibiting Aliens Fishing in Alaska Waters and abolishing the fish-trap, the former, however receiving the veto of the governor and the latter being killed by action of the Senate. Rep. Svindseth also introduced the bill creating the office of Territorial Treasurer and providing for his salary.

Wm. Fletcher and crew of boat-builders have turned out thirty-nine round-bottom trolling skiffs so far this season.

Princess May Brings First Cassiar Freight.

The Princess May, of the Canadian Pacific fleet, unloaded the first shipment of freight of this season destined for the upper Stikine and Cassiar Parts. Forty tons were unloaded and stowed in the bonded warehouse to await the opening of freight traffic on the Stikine whence it will be taken through in bond to British Columbia.

Committee Appointed To Arrange Services.

Too many irons were in the fire Saturday and a meeting could not be held to arrange for the Memorial Day Services, but Tuesday afternoon a small crowd got together and appointed a committee on General Arrangements consisting of J. E. Worden, Mrs. M. A. Willson and Leo McCormack, who will meet during the week and appoint sub-committees to look after the services in detail.

On a motion by J. H. Palmer, a standing committee consisting of M. F. Inman, F. H. Grey and E. Ludecke, was appointed to petition the government with a view of obtaining permanent monuments for the graves of deceased soldiers buried here.

New Gasboat Kake Up From Astoria

The new gasboat, Kake, for the Kake Packing Company, of Kake, Alaska, arrived from the south and tied up until Wednesday waiting for Sayles' pile driver. The Kake is a 64-footer built in the Wilson Bros. at their shipyards in Astoria Oregon and is powered with a Troyer-Fox engine. With pilot-house control, electric lights and auxiliary hoisting engine, the Kake is a modern tender, fast, powerful and seaworthy.

Sorset's "Woodshed"

Noticing that Art Sorset was doing his share in the lumber traffic along Front Street, the Sentinel man asked him what he was building and received the reply that it was a woodshed. Other opinions were to the contrary so an investigation was made, which revealed a residence under way on a lot purchased from P. E. McCormack, Sr. From the looks, it is safe to say that it won't be safe to call it a "woodshed" after it is finished.

Nahlin Launched

At one o'clock this morning, the stern-wheeler, Nahlin, was shoved and pulled into the water. For two weeks, the workmen have hammered far into the night to get the boat ready for the inspectors, who are expected on the 10th. The gears, sprockets and chains for stern wheel drive arrived on the Al-Ki and the wheel will be set up and shipped as soon as possible.

Run of Illness at Port Armstrong

The officers and employees at the Port Armstrong whaling station are having an excess of illness this spring with blood poisoning and throat troubles. About a week ago the Star 3 brought in Capt. Abrahamson and four Chinese employees with infected arms. The Star 1 came in Saturday with four more cases, two of which were placed in the hospital for treatment. One of the whaleboats is expected in again next Saturday.

Part of Estate For Missing Man.

Kansas Attorneys looking for Geo. Vaughn supposed to be in the Northland.

About the month of April 1887 George Vaughn, who was then working as a teamster for Fred Schwartz at Republic, Michigan, mysteriously disappeared. He had expected to finish his work about that time and go to his Uncle Robert Vaughn who was at Ironwood, Michigan, but did not do so. The last word regarding him was that he had drawn his back pay, amounting to about $500.00 and had gone. In 1897 a man by the name of Peter LaDux told this same Uncle, Robert Vaughn, that he had met a man by the name of Geo. Vaughn at Port Simpson and that he was working for the Hudson Bay Fur Company, handling supplies upon the Stikine river.

Power of Signal Lights.

In tests of oil lamps as weather signals at night, reported by G. Ishida from the Japanese meteorological station at Hamada, it has been found that the light of flat wicks is much brighter at a distance than that of round wicks and that the range of red lights is about double that of green. The latter became practically invisible at two miles, while red lights were still bright at three miles.

He Needed Proof.

It was after 10 o'clock at night, and the jury had just been discharged. A stout jurymen came over to the reporters' table. He had a worried look.

"You are an Evening News man, aren't you?"

"Yes."

"Are you going to report this case?"

"Yes."

"For tomorrow's paper?"

"Yes."

"Would you mind putting in a line saying that the jury was out until 10 o'clock?"

"I'll mention it, if you wish."

"I certainly hope you will. You have no idea how much I want you to. You are a young man and probably you're not married yet, but some day you'll have a wife, and then you'll understand."—Newark News.

Them Hand Bags.

The hand bag that the lady wore
Was wide and deep—immense—
And in said bag the lady bore
One spool of thread,
Fourteen hairpins,
Eight perfectly good buttons,
One thimble,
Three car tickets,
One recipe for sponge cake,
One manicure set,
Six samples,
One handkerchief,
Two yards of ribbon,
One powder puff,
One chamois skin,
Three headache powders,
One flock of keys,
One package of chewing gum,
One mirror,
Two postage stamps,
Fifty-seven varieties of dingbats
And seven cents.

—Milwaukee Sentinel.

She Said It.

A visitor of noble birth was expected to arrive at a large country house in the north of England, and the daughter of the house, aged seven, was receiving final instructions from her mother.

"And now, dear," she said, "when the duke speaks to you do not forget always to say 'your grace.'"

Presently the great man arrived, and after greeting his host and hostess he said to the child, "Well, my dear, and what is your name?" Judge of his surprise when the little girl solemnly closed her eyes and with clasped hands exclaimed, "For what we are about to receive may we be truly thankful, amen."—Ladies' Home Journal.

No Hero.

I never, never rode to hounds
Across the fields and brooks
Or drove a golf ball out of bounds
As people do in books.

I never talked in epigrams
To girls in cozy nooks
Or passed around those witty slams
As people do in books.

I never entertained a king
Or went out after noons
In short, I've never done a thing
That people do in books.

—Kansas City Journal.

Hospitality.

A tourist who had been caught in a severe storm up in the highlands congratulated himself, after finding a solitary cottage, on being asked to stay overnight.

After dinner, while wearing a suit of the guild man's clothes till his own were dry, he met the mistress on the stairs with a broom in her hand, and she, mistaking the stranger for her husband, gave him a thump on the head with the broom, remarking, "That's for askin' the man to stay a' night!"—London Weekly Telegraph.

The Old Chuck Wagon.

Oh, pard, I know the feelin's that are gwin' in yer breast
When you've rode a bronc' all mornin' an are achin' fer a rest!
It's then yer eyes go roamin' for the shinin' wagon top
An' the campfire which announces it's the place fer you to stop.
Ah, gee, the call of "grub pile!" There's nothin' half so sweet
As to quit yer tired broncho an' squat down an' eat an' eat
—Los Angeles Express.

No Partiality.

Barber—What will you have on your hair?

Customer—Don't get funny. I've got more than one hair.

Barber—So I see. Pardon me, I meant what you have on both.—

The Golden Crested Wren.
The golden crested wren is the smallest not only of British but of all European birds. Its average weight is only about eight grains troy. The length of the feathers is about three and a half inches and the stretch of the wings about five inches, but when the feathers are taken off the length of the body does not exceed one inch.

Not Guilty.
When Brother Aminidab Johnsing was pastor of a colored congregation he was so forgetful of the dignity of his cloth as to join in a game of craps one night. The bones ran against him, and he lost all the Sunday school funds. For this he was duly tried, and the verdict of the tribunal was as follows:
"The Reverend Aminidab Johnsing am acquitted of the sin of gambliin' pervedid he pays the money back come nex Satterdy night. In the mean time the members of this congerga-shen is warned agin shootin' craps with Brudder Johnsing."—New York Sun.

Our Difficult Language.
A manikin's a little man—
That simple fact no one would stump—
But a napkin's not a little nap,
And a pumpkin's not a pump.

A starling is a little star—
That's very vain to any chump—
But a stripling's not a little strip,
And a dumpling's not a little dump.

A kidlet is a little kid—
That's seen by e'en the dullest nut—
But a hamlet's not a little ham,
And a cutlet's not a little cut.

A princess is a lady prince,
But it is not held by any bloat
That a mattress is a female mat
Or a buttress is a nannygoat.

Oh, English, you are strangely made!
You're not a tongue for gumps or fools!
I'll never master you, I'm afraid.
You've more exceptions than you've rules.
—Boston Herald.

The Vicious Circle.
Apropos of the rise in meat prices, Representative Redfield said the other day in Brooklyn:
"The way everything keeps going up it will soon become discouraging. I can imagine an idle savage from the tropics saying scornfully to some industrious clerk or mill operative:
"Why do you work?"
"To live."
"And why do you live?"
"Why do I live?"
"Yes, that is what I said. Why do you live?"
"Er—to work."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Misplaced Ingenuity.
I'm told there is a new device
To keep the hat upon the hair.
You turn a handle—very nice—
It sets to work a comb that's there,
Whose teeth are bedded in a trice.
Fast in the tresses of the fair.

"No lady now should be without"—
Or so the puffing ads. agree—
"If in a gale you venture out
Your hat's as safe as safe can be."
A very clever dodge, no doubt,
But precious little use to me.

"To keep the hat upon the hair."
Umph! Fix it in that mobile bed.
It means if either of the pair
Blows off the other, too, is shed.
Would only some sure dodge there were
To keep the hair upon the head!
—Truth.

His Motto.
Platitudinous Person—I suppose, my dear Mr. Gotrox, that you have used "Make hay while the sun shines" as your life's motto?
Mr. Gotrox—Certainly, sir; certainly! But that's only half of it. You should add that I made the hay from the grass other people let grow under their feet.—Judge.

Fortified.
He's bought his coal
And doesn't care
How soon the winds
Go on a tear.

He's bought his coal,
Is fixed to fight
Old winter's frost
Night after night.

He's bought his coal.
Just hear him say,
"No blizzard's blast
Can me dismay!"
—Birmingham Age-Herald.

A Modest Order.
Mr. Martin—Now, then, Bennie, what part of the chicken would you prefer?
Bennie (who has been invited to Sunday dinner. Why, I'll take a drumstick, a little white meat off the breast, the gizzard, a wing, the neck and a spoonful of the stuffin'. Mom made me promise not to ask for a second helping.—Philadelphia Record.

A Bachelor's Outburst.
Dear sir, I am a bachelor.
My income is twelve hun.
'Tis small no doubt, yet I contrive
To have a lot of fun

You'll think me selfish, yet until
I'm richer, I must own,
I'd rather be a bachelor
And hog along alone.

Far be it from me to deride
Or scoff at wedded bliss,
I've thought the matter over well,
And my opinion's this:

Though bachelors are selfish things,
'Twould just as selfish be
To take a wife and bring her to
A life of drudgery.

Suppose I loved a girl (I do),
D'you think I'd care to see
Her toil and soil her pretty hands
The livelong day for me?

If I grow rich I'll crave the hand
Of her whom I adore;
If not, dear sir, I must remain
A lonely bachelor.

Geo. Vaughn who disappeared from Republic, Michigan, had no reason, so far as anyone knows of concealing his identity. Every effort is being made to discover what became of him, and any one furnishing information as to his whereabouts if living, or when and where he died, will be amply rewarded.

There is a tract of land in Kan-be interested if he were living, but his two sisters, his only heirs, some years ago, believing him to be dead executed a deed to this land.
